

Below, you will find discussion starter questions that may help you talk about your book.

Talk about the setting of the book and how it adds to or takes away from the story. Is this setting familiar to you? Do you know a place like this, or have you read about one before?

What specific themes did the author emphasize throughout the novel? What do you think he or she is trying to get across to the reader?

Do the characters seem real and believable? Can you relate to the situations they find themselves in? Do they remind you of yourself or someone you know?

How do characters change or evolve throughout the course of the story? What events cause such changes?

Did certain parts of the book make you uncomfortable? If so, why did you feel that way? Do you think you learned anything as a result?

What was your favorite part of the book?

What was your least favorite part?

Tell about the most exciting or most interesting thing that happened.

Have you ever experienced any conflicts like those in the book? Discuss.

Below, you will find discussion starter questions that may help you talk about your book.

Talk about the setting of the book and how it adds to or takes away from the story. Is this setting familiar to you? Do you know a place like this, or have you read about one before?

What specific themes did the author emphasize throughout the novel? What do you think he or she is trying to get across to the reader?

Do the characters seem real and believable? Can you relate to the situations they find themselves in? Do they remind you of yourself or someone you know?

How do characters change or evolve throughout the course of the story? What events cause such changes?

Did certain parts of the book make you uncomfortable? If so, why did you feel that way? Do you think you learned anything as a result?

What was your favorite part of the book?

What was your least favorite part?

Tell about the most exciting or most interesting thing that happened.

Have you ever experienced any conflicts like those in the book? Discuss.